

A LETTER FROM THE BOARD CHAIR

Dear Friends,

I can sum up my commitment to Camperdown in three letters: A-N-A, my daughter, Ana. As the parent of a child with dyslexia, I understand what it's like when your child cannot read. Luckily for my family, we live in one of the few places in the country that has a school for kids just like her. Ana spent three and a half years at Camperdown and learned "how to learn."

I joined the Board of Trustees because she was a student. Ana has moved on, but I have stayed. The school met her needs. Now the school has a need, and I intend to meet it. In 1986, a group of similarly committed parents and community members pooled their resources and founded Camperdown. Their leadership and sacrifice made sure that my daughter had a seat in a classroom when she needed it. I ask you to join me in making seats available for the next generation of dyslexic children.
